

3rd November, 1965.

Dear Mrs Taylor,

Thank you very much indeed for your letter of October 13 which reached me on Friday. I am just about to write to Bob, and will be delighted to send on your letter.

The book you sent also arrived on Friday. By a happy coincidence, I was making up parcels of books for him on that day so your book was posted immediately. I think it is an excellent choice and will be much appreciated by him -- provided, of course, that the authorities allow it through to him. In his last letter to me he requested plays by Priestley, stories by Maugham, studies in Judaism and anything political I could get to him. I organized a quick whip round among people I know and was able to send him about 29 books on a range of subjects.

I have previously written to Bob Bilheimer asking him to convey my personal thanks to you for your continued kindness and generosity. I am happy to have this chance to write direct to you to say the same thing. You will have seen from the letters received by you the calibre of the man with whom we are dealing. I can only add to this that your kindness is making life a great deal easier for him, for his wife and for his children. I have just finalised arrangements for his wife and four children to travel to Cape Town at the end of December to pay a visit to him, and have also arranged for the children to return home first from boarding school. Also, within the next few weeks I shall be arranging for a Ixas food parcel to be sent to him.

All this would have been impossible without your help. My very grateful thanks to you.

Yours sincerely,

BENJAMIN FOGELUND.
